++ Mission and Overview Statement

The mission of the Counselor Education and Supervision (CES) Doctoral Program is to prepare counselor educators, supervisors, and researchers who identify as professional counselors and who are knowledgeable in all areas as of the applicable Council of Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) Standards (www.cacrep.org). Graduates consider their role to be that of leaders and advocates for social justice in addition to being scholars and educators who contribute to the advancement of the counseling profession in a diverse world. The CES Doctoral Program makes a significant contribution to Arizona through the research and applied activity of its faculties and students. Additionally, we are the only program in Arizona approved, through our obligation as a Land Grant State University, to prepare personnel to serve the counseling needs of citizens with disabilities in the State of Arizona.

Process of Assessment

The Doctoral Faculty develop the students skills and knowledge in each of the areas indicated within the learning outcomes through a combination of didactic teaching, discussion, practicing skills, both within the classroom and in the community, through practica, internships, and through projects that require the application of learned concepts. Additionally, faculty mentor the student in acquiring the indicated outcomes throughout their program of study. Outcomes are assessed in a variety of ways, including papers, projects, practicum and internship assessment forms, and performance in benchmark exams (e.g. comprehensive exams, written and oral dissertation defense).

Outcome

Outcome: Counseling:
Students will demonstrate the ability to integrate theory in clinical practice.

Measure: SERP 635 Theory Integration Presentation

Course level Direct - Student Artifact

Details/Description: Students will demonstrate the ability to integrate theory in clinical practice.
Acceptable Target: Students will achieve an average of at least 44 out of 55 points on the Rubric.

Ideal Target: 2017-2018 results: 49/55

Implementation Plan (timeline): The course is typically completed during the first year of year two of the student’s program.

Key/Responsible Personnel: Program Faculty

Details/Description: Students will demonstrate the ability to integrate theory in clinical practice.

Acceptable Target: Students will achieve an average of at least 3 out of 4 points on Question #14 of the Rubric.

Ideal Target: 2017-2018 results: 3.5/4 points

Implementation Plan (timeline): SERP 694 may be completed at any time in the students program of study depending on their prior clinical experience. However, typically it is completed after the student has taken and successfully passed SERP 635.

Key/Responsible Personnel: Practicum site supervisor.

Outcome: Supervision: Students will demonstrate skills associated with effective supervision.

Findings for SERP 640: Instructor Evaluation

Summary of Findings: Students scored an average of 18 out of 20 on the rubric evaluating their in class performance in the supervision class. Their mean score averaged 18 out of 20 possible points.

Results: Acceptable Target Achievement: Exceeded; Ideal Target Achievement: Exceeded

Recommendations: As this class is revised the in class practice supervision should be maintained as students felt this was helpful and contributed to their strong performance in supervision.

Reflections/Notes: Although students scores were high on the practice supervision, it was felt that this class was disorganized and that students needed a broader exposure to theories and techniques in supervision. Consequently, the program plans to revise this course and it will be taught by a Counseling faculty member in the future.

Overall Recommendations

The outcome data was reviewed by faculty in a meeting held on June 11, 2018. The outcomes fell within the targets for all of the criteria. The faculty discussed the usefulness of the forms used in the evaluation of the practicum and internship, expressing concerns that they are so detailed that the overall message may get lost. It was decided that the faculty supervisors will review the forms and make recommendations to the faculty for revisions during the 2018-2019 academic year with the aim of making the number of items shorter and more focused on the most important competencies. The supervisors were also asked to review the forms to make sure that there is sufficient focus on dispositions, as well as skills and knowledge development, as dispositions are often the difficulty when students struggle. A review of qualitative information obtained by the students suggested that the supervision and teaching course was somewhat disorganized. This will be addressed next time the course is taught, as it will be taught by a core faculty member in the Counseling program whose research is in the area of supervision and who has taught the course successfully in the past. Overall, the faculty felt that the students had performed well in the courses and that they had met the key performance indicators in all areas.

Overall Reflection

After a preliminary review of the practicum and internship forms, it was decided that although they could be reduced in length and detail they are functional and adequately assess performance. Consequently, revision of the forms will be postponed until the 2020-2021 academic year.
